

Title:	A process for preparing spray dried custard apple powder free from bitterness, discoloration, and off-flavor from custard pulp
Abstract:	The present invention deals with an organic process for preparing pulp from custard apple, which has an extended storage life of 12 months in a frozen state in acceptable conditions that can find use in various applications during non-availability of the fruit and a custard apple powder free of bitterness, discoloration and off-flavor and that can be used in chilled beverages and ice creams.